iii. the penalty for an offence, i.e. a fine (multa) of not less than €120 and not more than €350.

The prohibition in point i above may have an impact on the sales of sparklers and similar items, given that these items may no longer be used in indoor public spaces, including bars and restaurants. This prohibition is being introduced in response to the incident in a Swiss entertainment establishment in New Years' Eve 2026. It is meant to prevent such incidents that may result in fires and possibly loss of life.

At the same time, in view of the exception in ii, this legislation does not rule out indoor pyrotechnics in public spaces so long as these are regulated and licensed.
